Dear Sir or Madam,

I wish to apply for the role of Junior PHP Developer and join your team. Please see my on-line portfolio for further information on my skills and past projects.

Time wise I am interested in both part-time or full-time job, but the optimum would be 35 to 45 hours a week. Along with commuting I would really appreciate an opportunity to work on weekends and in the night as a home office.

I realize that my studies might seem like an obstacle, nevertheless last year my classes took me only 12 hours a week and considering how far ahead I am in the course, I do not have to study home so far. I believe my commercial experience and work devotion is a fair counterweight to the fact that I am still a student.

Regarding my financial reward I would like to start on £15 per hour. However I can be flexible with it if the project is really interesting or if great potential of career growth is offered. I understand that you would want to test me first before going higher.

Yours Faithfully,

Michael Bausano
bausanomichal@gmail.com
07599 906380
linkedin.com/in/bausano